Period.By idxpathmanThese days, getting into a competitive college is sufficiently difficult and important that it has spawned an entire industry of people who do nothing but guide students through the process, some of them getting paid up to $50K

for that help. When our daughters were in the process of applying to colleges, we looked for the best in that field and decided to hire Lisa Fisher to help our daughters figure out where to apply and how to do it. We paid what seemed like a lot for that guidance but it turned out to be invaluable and the girls both got into the schools they ranked first--and they were both accepted to a number of top notch schools. I believe they might not have been accepted to some of those schools without Lisa's guidance. And I'm talking RISD, SCAD, Carnegie Mellon, Wellesley, Gonzaga, schools of that ilk. Here, in one slender volume, is Lisa's "secret sauce," for college aspirants/applicants. I've bought copies for my friends with high school age kids because I know it'll help them. Highly recommended without reservation; your college bound kids, or those of your friends, will thank you.

By Avid Reader Every teen will benefit from this book. I wish someone had given me a book like this or a semblance of the guidance it espouses when I was young. I could have connected with the truest me earlier and established a successful professional path guided by my heart in my 20s rather than my 40s! Can't recommend Admissions by Design enough!

By slimjimbest Amazing! Finally a book on admissions that actually coaches a student (and family) in the areas with greatest impact ... evolving life purpose, deepest passion, and life-long participation in constructing the journey! Fisher packs this life-manual with current scholarship, systems theory and best coaching practices in an accessible way with clear actionable exercises that move a student forward and gives them a whole new way of thinking about their path for the rest of their lives. What a gift from Fisher's deep experience with students, her coaching expertise, and her scholarship! I have eagerly given copies to several of my young teen friends and their families and see it as a guide for anyone seeking deep purpose. A significant contribution!

The race to matriculate into the most-prestigious-university-possible is killing America's students. There is a better way! Admissions by Design is a poignant, unorthodox, and thorough guide that upends the traditional paradigm of college admissions. Incorporating the latest research in brain science and human development and using stories from her nearly 20 years of work with students, Lisa Fisher offers students practical tools to reframe the college admissions process to one of an inspired and authentic journey toward self-discovery. Building from the root of the word "admission," meaning "toward purpose," and tying the college admissions process to the development of self and to emerging trends in economic development, the author argues that the admissions process should not be about getting into a prestigious "name" school, but about a journey to knowing oneself, heeding one's callings, and identifying the "right" school that will serve as the catalyst to embracing a purpose-led life. Presenting facts and details about the ways in which the current system of college admissions negatively impacts students, the author challenges prevailing methods and offers new ideas and solutions to reinvent the approach to college admissions to be more humanistic and student-centered. This practical guide challenges students to define and pursue their unique paths and offers hands-on tools to help students in their process of self-discovery and in identifying and applying to the "right" college.

"Students looking for an easy route to college admissions will not find it here... What they will find, however, is a bold and refreshing take on attending college that is, in reality, a guide to preparing for a successful, happy life." Foreword (5 star review)

"Readers looking for a more holistic approach to the question of higher education will find this book a useful tool." Kirkus

"This book is a great gift for parents with high schoolers and teens thinking about college" MomSpot.com

"Lisa Fisher has done it again! With Admissions By Design she is rethinking college search and admissions in a fundamental and beautiful way. A must-read for any student and / or parent entering the college search process. This novel way of thinking about college admissions is really a platform for thinking about how to live your entire life with passion and purpose." Michael J. Carter Founder CEO, Strive for College

"Bringing design thinking into the traditional college admissions process has the potential to be transformative for many young people and their families. Lisa Fisher's book deftly cracks open the topic and helps the reader question assumptions in important ways." Susie Wise, PhD Director, K12 Lab Network Hasso Plattner Institute of Design, Stanford University

Admissions by Design is a call to assure that the college admission and selection process has heart and soul. With Lisa Fisher's book, students are invited to bring their whole self to the college decision process. Therein lies the design.

Ed Taylor Dean and Vice Provost Undergraduate Academic Affairs University of Washington "Students are hungry for the message contained within the pages of Admissions by Design. Fisher compassionately challenges college bound students to begin the admissions process from a new starting line: the self." Teresa Poppen Executive Director and Ultimate Difference Maker, One Stone

Lisa Fisher's Admissions by Design is a wise, deeply insightful response to what is wrong with our "winner take all" society, the forces that undermine good parenting, and the college admissions monolith. The genius of the book is placing the locus of control with the young men and women whose futures are at stake. Fisher brings together the best research and thinking on how to navigate the college process and the future in a healthy, happy and successful way. Her approach is innovative and long overdue." David Holmes, Ph.D. Executive Director of Strategic Initiatives and Head of School Emeritus Community School, Sun Valley, Idaho
