

(Online library) Economic Policy in the International Economy: Essays in Honor of Assaf Razin

Economic Policy in the International Economy: Essays in Honor of Assaf Razin

From Cambridge University Press
*audiobook / ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#3394005 in eBooks 2003-03-27 2003-03-27 File Name: B01DM2AY30 | File size: 25.Mb

From Cambridge University Press : Economic Policy in the International Economy: Essays in Honor of Assaf Razin before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Economic Policy in the International Economy: Essays in Honor of Assaf Razin:

Originally published in 2003, this book contains fifteen major essays on international economics. The authors investigate five principal themes: theory, and empirics, of financial issues in open economies; economic growth; public economies; and political economy. Written to honor Professor Assaf Razin of Tel Aviv and Cornell Universities on the occasion of his sixtieth birthday, the essays pay close attention to policy issues as well as formal analysis. The contributors include renowned specialists in international economics based in North America, Europe, Israel, and China. This volume of advanced research will be of interest to scholars, policy makers, and advanced students alike.

"This is a superb collection of 15 theoretical and empirical papers on international finance, economic growth, domestic and international aspects of tax reform, and the impact of political institutions on economic policy...No economist can leaf through this book without finding something new and exciting." Peter Kenen, Princeton University

"This is a volume that fittingly reflects the breadth of Assaf Razin's contributions to economics. From public finance to trade, from growth to political economy, few contemporary economists have ranged as widely (and as wisely) as Assaf Razin. The editors have assembled a first-rate group of authors and articles to pay him homage." Dani Rodrik, Harvard University

"Substantial changes in the international economy increasingly warrant a solid economic analysis and strong policy considerations. This great book meets the challenge by providing an excellent selection of articles dealing in a timely manner with frontier issues in finance, growth, taxation and political institutions in a global context. All contributions are original, well conceived and executed. The volume deserves a wide readership among economists, advanced students and those policy makers who seek a deep understanding of the international economy. Klaus F. Zimmermann, IZA and University of Bonn, Germany"

"This first-rate collection of essays is a clear indication of the very high reputation Assaf Razin enjoys in our profession. Written by top experts in the field, the contributions included in this book are both extremely topical and based on frontier research methods. They provide a wealth of insights on a very wide range of important policy issues." Mathias Dewatripont, Universite Libre de Bruxelles and Centre for Economic Policy Research, London

"The present volume contains significant contributions at the frontier of research in international economics, growth, and public economics by leading. By combining theoretical rigor with careful examination of the data, it provides a perfect example of the kind of research that should guide economic policy, as well as a most suitable celebration of Assaf Razin's contributions to economic science over the years." Jordi Gali, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Barcelona, Spain

"Few economists satisfy the twin criteria of being both wide and deep. Assaf Razin is one such scholar, and this collection of fifteen essays in his honor attempts, successfully, to mirror these characteristics. Economic growth, fiscal policy, taxation issues and political economy all receive careful attention, with all analyzed in the modern setting in which international trade and finance create so many links among nations. Helpman and Sadka have indeed honored their colleague." Ronald Jones, University of Rochester