From Asian Development Bank : Navigating the Global Storm: A Policy Brief on the Global Financial Crisis (Pacific Studies) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Navigating the Global Storm: A Policy Brief on the Global Financial Crisis (Pacific Studies):

The global financial crisis emerged at an alarming rate. A global credit squeeze led to large falls in international stock markets and the world economy is weakening rapidly. The Pacific is largely shielded from the most immediate effects of the crisis, but it is not immune. This Policy Brief provides early advice on what the global financial crisis could mean for the Pacific and what it could do to lessen its adverse impacts. The key response should be to reinvogue structural reform, which is crucial to achieving sustained economic growth.
