From Palgrave Macmillan : New Directions in Comparative Capitalisms Research: Critical and Global Perspectives (International Political Economy Series) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised New Directions in Comparative Capitalisms Research: Critical and Global

Perspectives (International Political Economy Series):

Now that the 'Varieties of Capitalism' hype has passed, students of capitalist diversity are searching for new directions. This book presents the first sustained dialogue between institutionalist 'post-VoC' and more critical, global approaches, thus contributing to the development of a new generation of Comparative Capitalisms scholarship.

'Charting new directions, developing new perspectives, and bringing new energy to the field of comparative capitalisms research, this innovative collection presents a radical challenge to intellectual path dependency. In the best traditions of critical and heterodox scholarship, it opens up and illuminates the horizon not only with new analytical formulations but with new political-economic imaginaries as well.' Jamie Peck, University of British Columbia, Canada 'With its invaluable and up-to-date effort to change the way we do research on capitalism, this edited collection is a breath of fresh air and a much needed contribution to a long-standing debate a highly stimulating and timely book which opens up a research agenda that is both pertinent and necessary.' Ramiro Fernaldez, Universidad Nacional del Litoral, Argentina 'New Directions in Comparative Capitalisms Research sets a refreshing, bold agenda for critical research into capitalist diversity. By turns confrontational, reflective, and forward-thinking, it should be read by everyone now grappling with understanding the evolving nature of capitalism in the contemporary world.' Juliet Johnson, McGill University, Canada 'New Directions in Comparative Capitalisms Research deserves praise by bringing the dynamic reality of a conflictual, national borders transcending capitalism back into the research on the Varieties of Capitalism. This splendid co-edited volume with its critical and global perspective is destined to become a point of reference in the search for new directions in comparative capitalisms research.' - Christoph Scherrer, Universität Kassel, Germany About the Author Renato Boschi, Rio de Janeiro State University (IESP-UERJ), Brazil David Coates, Wake Forest University in North Carolina, USA Jan Drahoš, University of Mannheim, Germany, and a Senior Researcher at the European Trade Union Institute (ETUI) in Brussels, Belgium Flavio Gaitaneri, Federal University of Latin American Integration (UNILA), Brazil Bob Jessop, Lancaster University, UK Julia Lux, University of Tübingen, Germany Terrence McDonough, National University of Ireland, Galway, Ireland Martin Myant, European Trade Union Institute in Brussels, Belgium Andreas Nölke, Goethe University Frankfurt am Main, Germany Nadia Pessina, Catholic University of Córdoba, Argentina Lucía Suares Arinci, University of Kassel, Germany Lisa Tilley, University of Warwick, UK, and Université Libre de Bruxelles, Belgium Ingrid Wehr, Heinrich Boell Foundation Cono Sur, Chile Stefanie Wühl, University of Vienna, Austria
