

[PDF] Shanghaied?: The Economic and Political Implications fo the Flow of Information Technology and Investment Across the Taiwan Strait: TR-133 (Technical Report)

Shanghaied?: The Economic and Political Implications fo the Flow of Information Technology and Investment Across the Taiwan Strait: TR-133 (Technical Report)

Michael S. Chase, Kevin L. Pollpeter, James C. Mulvenon
*audiobook / ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

 Download

 Read Online

#4392290 in eBooks 2004-07-26 2004-08-25File Name: B000RGSQ0S | File size: 68.Mb

Michael S. Chase, Kevin L. Pollpeter, James C. Mulvenon : Shanghaied?: The Economic and Political Implications fo the Flow of Information Technology and Investment Across the Taiwan Strait: TR-133 (Technical Report) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Shanghaied?: The Economic and Political Implications fo the Flow of Information Technology and Investment Across the Taiwan Strait: TR-133 (Technical Report):

The flows of trade and investment across the Taiwan Strait have increased dramatically in recent years, driven largely by the increasing integration of the information technology (IT) sectors of Taiwan and the People's Republic of China. This report examines the economic and political implications of cross-Strait flows of technology and capital. The authors comprehensively analyze the investment and IT transfer dynamics between Taiwan and China and their implications for the global semiconductor industry and U.S. policymaking.

From the Inside Flap Analyzes the dynamics of the transfer of technology and capital between Taiwan and China and assesses their impact on cross-Strait relations and the worldwide semiconductor industry About the Author Kevin Pollpeter (MA, International Policy Studies, Monterey Institute of International Studies) is a research assistant at RAND whose research interests include Asian and Chinese security issues and nonproliferation issues.